

ACTION: Notice of Meetings, Open to the Public, of the Multi-Agency Radiation Survey and Site Investigation Manual Work Group

SUMMARY: The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is announcing that the Department of Defense, Department of Energy, Environmental Protection Agency, and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission are meeting to discuss the joint Federal guidance for standardized and consistent approaches to accomplish structural and environmental radiation surveys, the "Multi-Agency Radiation Survey and Site Investigation Manual (MARSSIM)". Relevant information will be provided to the group by other persons present.

Meetings of the group are open to the public on a first come, space available basis with advance registration. During the next meeting, representatives of the agencies will discuss: strategic planning, updates to the manual, software development, model interface, surveys for release and clearance of materials and equipment, and the schedule of future meetings. In addition, time will be set aside for members of the public to make a brief oral presentation at the next meeting. In general, opportunities for oral comment will usually be limited to five minutes per speaker and no more than one hour total. Written comments may also be presented.
