Comments: We do not want the spent nuclear fuel in our state. Utah is too beautiful to be the nations dumping ground, not to mention the health of Utah people and wildlife will be put in danger. I can understand the people of the Goshute tribe want to reap the economic benefits from this facility, but I think big business and the government is pulling the wool over the Native American eyes once again. The settlement of the country was built on massacres and lies when dealing with the Native people. I think the lies are once again being told. I listened to a Goshute leader talk about how safe the facility will be and how it will not effect the environment because that is what the "white man" told him. I feel the state of Utah should compensate the tribe financially to not put the facility there, or even a better idea; put a casino on the land. That will create jobs, bring income, and give the people of the area something to be a part of.

I grew up in Utah and I care greatly about the land, it's animals, and it's people. I represented Utah and the United States in Olympic competition and was proud to do so. I do not want to see Utah go up in toxic flames due to big business and the almighty dollar. Let the nuclear facilities and the east coast keep there own waste - We do not want it.
