Subject: Seismic Checklist Update

Alan Nelson just called and stated that based on this morning's telcom, they plan to do the following:

[The recommendations referred to below are those provided in a December 3, 1999 letter to NEI and other stakeholders]

- Incorporate Recommendations 1 and 2 into the checklist
- Provide additional discussion on recommendations 3, 4, and 5
- Provide additional justifications on why EPRI data should be used
- Focus on the high seismic concerns for CEUS sited BWRs (excluding shoreham and yankee rowe which are no longer an issue) Only 3? per Alan Nelson's estimation
- Will bring some BWR expertise into the discussion

Alan Nelson said that the industry is reluctant to identify outlier plants by name. He also said that it may not be possible to get some representative BWRs to perform a fragility assessment because of costs approaching $100 K.

Alan said that they do not need to have any additional calls at this time. They plan to have their input to us by December 13th.

Let me know if you need any clarification or followup.

Diane or Goutam - please circulate this e-mail to anyone else who you thinks would be interested in this information. -----Bill
