Subject: No more radioactive waste in my home!

June 11, 2003 (9:16AM)

OFFICE OF SECRETARY
RULEMAKINGS AND ADJUDICATIONS STAFF

The tax paying public (as well as all of nature) should not be exposed to nuclear waste that big corporations benefit from by producing. If they can't stop producing this waste immediately then it should be PROPERLY disposed of or PROPERLY contained until such time as a solution is found to make it absolutely and totally safe for people and the environment.

People on this earth are becoming sicker and more diseased. Cancers and even diseases like Parkinson's are much, much more common than they were just a few generations ago. Yes, we're able to treat these diseases and the simpler ones like infections, much better than we did in the past, so people are generally living longer. But why on earth aren't we helping to prevent them to begin with?

When are people going to learn? We can't keep treating each generation as guinea pigs, creating and releasing poisons into this small planet that is already distressed and that we call home, with the expectation that we'll "see what happens" and try to fix it later if it proves to be a problem.

Radioactive waste must no longer be used in any way, shape or form. And it should be removed from existing products immediately. A company that makes this waste for it's own monetary benefit MUST be made accountable. Not be allowed to actually sell?! the stuff for even more profit!

"Business as usual" must stop. Do you really think this planet and the life on it can handle more?

Sincerely,
Dani Adams
