

June 12, 2003 (11:09AM)

OFFICE OF SECRETARY
RULEMAKINGS AND ADJUDICATIONS STAFF

Secretary
Attention: Rulemaking and Adjudications Staff
Nuclear Regulatory Commission
Washington, DC 20555

(191)

I am disgusted that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission would consider deregulating nuclear waste. Recycling these materials into consumer products would be both reckless and dangerous. The NRC would illustrate with such a move that it has begun to put monetary concerns above the public health.

Due to the public health concern of any amount of radiation, keeping these potentially radioactive waste products completely isolated from the public is absolutely necessary. Great care must be taken to ensure that radioactive material cannot be leaked into our environment in any way. I feel that this responsibility of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission must not be ignored.

Sincerely,
Gretchen Hall.

Gretchen Hall
angelfish-X@hotmail.com
307 McDaniel St.
Tallahassee, FL 32303