Subject: Reducing regulations on Nuc. Waste Generators

(439)

HAVE YOU LOST YOUR MIND?

Sorry that isn't the way I should be starting this letter but it's all that comes to mind when I think of having nuclear waste, regulated or not, dispersed into everyday products. Things such as toys, dental braces, intrauterine devices, may God help us all. Radioactive waste and soil are not the things that our ever increasingly fragile environment need to be burdened with. These stakeholders for whom you want to reduce regulatory burdens are the only ones who deserve the burden. I along with many other citizens fought against the building of these nuclear power plants in the first place. I suggest you stop any and all dispersing of nuclear waste into everyday commerce and start making those who created it more responsible by forcing them to build on-site, above ground, monitored storage facilities. I further urge you to make these stakeholders recapture and report on all nuclear waste that has already been deregulated, seeing as you all seem to think it is of no danger.

Signed,
A concerned citizen and parent,
JacLynn Bowling
