"Significant Change" to an A&N System

FEMA Rule 44 CFR 350 establishes the policy and procedures for review and approval by FEMA of state and local emergency plans and preparedness for offsite effects of a radiological emergency that may occur at a commercial nuclear power facility. 44 CFR 350.5 requires that "the means to provide early notification to the populace within the plume exposure pathway Emergency Planning Zone (EPZ) have been established." In accordance with 44 DFR 350.14, a "significant change" involves any change to State and local plans and preparedness that may affect its adequacy to protect public health and safety and must be processed and reviewed in the same manner as an initial plan submission.

As it relates to an A&N system, a "significant change" includes:

- A change in EPZ boundaries requiring the addition of new alerting devices or changes the number of local governments that must be involved in alert and notification.
- A change in EPZ population requiring a change to the A&N system siren sound levels.
- Substituting one form of alerting for another (e.g., sirens for special alerting devices).
- Addition to or upgrading of alerting devices based on evidence of inadequate A&N system coverage.
- A change to maintenance methods that is not addressed in the design report.
- A change to testing methods that is not addressed in the design report.
- A loss of administrative control of special alerting devices that brings into question whether affected populations(s) can be notified in a timely manner.
- A change in siren locations and/or ratings not explicitly considered as acceptable by the FEMA technical evaluation.
- A change to the siren control system that is not addressed in the design report.
- Any change that can reasonably be expected to reduce siren sound coverage. Such changes include:
 - o Degradation in sirens output below that assumed in the design report due to design due to installation or maintenance practices;
 - o Substitution using a siren with a lower sound rating;
 - o Substitution using directional siren for an omni-directional siren;
 - o Increasing the siren operating frequency;
 - o Siren control system design, configuration control or software quality assurance problems identified during system operation and maintenance that can be reasonably expected to cause more than 10% of the sirens not being actuated in an actual emergency unless the A&N system is modified; or
 - o Addition of buildings or man-made changes in topographical features that can be reasonably expected to result in "shadowing" of sound from nearby siren(s) not previously accounted for.
- Any other item that brings into question the ability of the A&N system to perform in the way it was described in the Design Report. This can be based on NRC inspection findings or significance determination, emergency exercise results, telephone survey results or the FEMA Regional Assistance Committee (RAC) chair judgment.
