SUBJECT: SENSITIVE INFORMATION IN NUREG-SERIES PUBLICATIONS

As you know, the Commission is currently reviewing the agency's printed and Web-based publications to identify publicly available information that may reveal significant details about the security, safeguards, or potential vulnerabilities at licensed facilities. This concern also applies to the NUREG-series reports that are currently in queue for review and printing by the Publishing Services Branch (PSB).

To address this concern, please send an e-mail to PSB (at PUBS@nrc.gov) to verify that the reports submitted by your office (listed in the attachment to this memorandum) have been reviewed to ensure that they do not reveal any sensitive information and are therefore appropriate for printing and public availability. If you wish to retract a report from public availability, please indicate in your e-mail whether you would like the report to be distributed to selected internal recipients.

In addition, please keep this concern in mind when planning, preparing, or authorizing any future reports for publication. Unless you indicate otherwise, we will assume that any future publications forwarded to us for review and printing have been reviewed to ensure that they are appropriate for public availability. To document that decision when submitting future publications, please have your office note on the accompanying "Authorization to Publish a NUREG-Series Document" (NRC Form 426/426A) that public availability is authorized.
