Mindy, Thanks for being the "lighthouse" on this issue, and for generally agreeing with me on the issues this morning. Gil

Tom, the Commission still has not issued a final SRM. We expect another version shortly but don't know whether it will be another draft or a final. In the meantime, I have copied Gil Millman on this response... he is the RES contact for these document reviews and you should touch base with him as to current RES procedures.

Mindy,

Scott Newberry gave me a copy of the draft Commission's disapproval of the draft COMSECY-01-0030. What is the latest status? As you are aware, I've got papers stacking up over here awaiting further guidance as to how to classify them for release. Given the wording of the Commission, I think most of the items I would have previously classified as Sensitive now could be openly released. I don't want to do this, however, until we get a more definitive word on the release/classification criteria. Any information would be appreciated.

Thanks for you time and patience during these trying times.

TomW .
