THE NATION'S PREMIER COLLEGE DIVERSITY RECRUITMENT CONFERENCES

November 5, 2003

Nils Diaz
US Nuclear Regulatory Commission
Office of Public Affairs
Washington, DC 20555

Dear Nils,

I am pleased to invite you to participate in the Nation's #1 Rated College/Diversity Recruitment Conferences, Careers 2004.

We have been sponsoring college recruiting/diversity events for the last 17 years. In fact, we have more minority candidates at our events than any other college event. We not only recruit (minority) candidates at the top schools but expand and prescreen candidates at many other top colleges and universities throughout each region. We give you a greater choice in this competitive recruiting world. A choice that is ever more critical today as budgets and staffing are being cut back. Do more with less seem to be the norm! Our events will help you achieve your hiring goals while saving you thousands of dollars now and during the year!

I am sure you will be invited to many conferences. While we employ dozens of Internet recruiting strategies, and have a highly-trafficked web site, we are the face-to-face "experts" who actually put motivated, high-quality, candidates in front of you to meet and interview. Our programs can help you hire outstanding students you would not see anywhere else and save you time & money. Whether you are expanding the number of college hires, or reducing them you still need to choose the best from a huge pool of qualified candidates, we deliver. Just as important, we stay with you for the entire recruiting season as a resource dedicated to helping you deal with unexpected changes and unplanned openings! Even if cut backs occur, we can help you hire the best without spending time, travel & expenses.

CAREERS 2004, The Nation's Premier College Recruitment/Diversity Conferences

Results of last year's Conferences are extremely positive! Participating employers made over 1,800 hires from virtually every major discipline - from Computer Science & Engineering; Sales & Marketing and Business disciplines such as Accounting, Finance, Economics and Management to Liberal Arts, Mathematics, Statistics and the Sciences. Average GPA 3.5+ for your Management Development or Outstanding Scholar Programs!

This year, we will again help employers meet, interview and hire from an outstanding, diverse group of highly motivated students who attend a Conference by invitation only. We recruit students from over 1,500 colleges and universities; pre-screen their credentials and interests and invite only those that best match your requirements to attend. Each Conference also has private interviewing facilities at no additional cost.

We have a Strong Minority (from all racial groups) and Female representation in all disciplines. Our Conferences are recognized by the OFCCP as an Affirmative Action strategy under Title VII. In addition, our Nationally Recognized Resume Database - GradTrak - allows us to search on thousands of student resumes all during the year at no additional cost the cost savings can be in the 1,000's!

Our 100% Guarantee. It is our responsibility to ensure your success. We put it in writing!

Please do not hesitate to contact me toll free at (888) 961-2345 if you have any questions or need additional information. Thank you for your consideration and have a great day!

Sincerely,

Mark A. Grove, President

Meet The President

Mark Grove, President of Career Conferences of America, Inc., is the former Director of Staffing & Diversity/EEO at Aetna for nine years. Prior to his Aetna service, he was the Human Resource & Diversity/EEO Officer at Yale University.

During his tenure at Aetna, Mark worked very closely with the late Arthur Ashe, Jr., and many national diversity consultants, to accelerate Aetna's Diversity progress. He was responsible for the development of strategies to recruit women and minorities, as well as diversity training and OFCCP compliance programs. His accomplishments include the development and implementation of one of the first diversity training programs in the country for "middle management", and increased minority hiring at Aetna 25%.

Mark has also been the recipient of numerous national awards recognizing his work in the development of youth employment/diversity programs from organizations such as the National Urban League, National Puerto Rican Forum, NAACP, NSBE, National Alliance of Business, Howard University, LULAC, La Raza, SER, Morehouse & Spelman Alumni/Alumnae Associations, Howard University, INROADS, among others. The Wall Street Journal cited his efforts in developing and managing one of the best recruitment and diversity programs in the country. Mark has also been the recipient of The White-House Presidential Merit Award for developing and implementing one of the nation's best employment/diversity programs.

"For over 26 years, I have championed the policy that a strong diversity program makes good business sense. By 2005, women and minorities will comprise 75% of the workforce. Employers must focus their efforts and resources on diversity programs, in good times and in difficult times. They must do more to recruit, retain, develop and promote women and minorities. Reaching out to this diverse talent pool is the first step, and Careers 2004 can support this important business objective."

Diversity Makes Good Business Sense

Diversity has changed over the years, from being the right thing to do to being an integral component of a successful long term business plan. Diversity is key to acquiring and maintaining a competitive edge in the marketplace.

Building a diverse workforce through outreach and recruiting initiatives creates a work place where each individual can make a full contribution to the bottom line. And that's good for business.

Senior managements of the nation's most successful companies know that diversity is one of the keys to growth, and they are committed to a consistent, sustained effort to reach, recruit and retain women and minorities.

Diversity Outreach - A Critical Activity In Challenging Times

Even during challenging times, the best employers continually seek a dialogue with women and minorities. Their outreach efforts reinforce a commitment to establishing relationships; to identifying excellent candidates; and to diversity recruitment and hiring when the opportunities arise. They develop strong diversity programs that are consistent, proactive and which support long term goals, objectives and business growth. Their commitment to diversity outreach does not come and go with changing economic times, workforce restructuring or reorganization. It is a constant.

Diversity Improves Workforce Quality and Increases ROI

One of the largest investments a company makes is in its human capital - its workforce. recruiting, training, compensation and benefits are all areas that demand a significant return on investment (ROI). The number of women and minorities in the U.S. workforce is increasing faster than ever before, and successful companies maximize their ROI by creating an environment where each employee feels valued. Productivity rises as employee motivation and commitment increases. Less time and resources are spent coping with high turnover rates, retraining and counseling.

A Must For All Employers!

Careers 2004... one great event for both students & employers -- No other Conferences compare in terms of Quality & Diversity!

Attending Careers 2004 Makes Good Business Sense!

For 17 years, our Conferences have been delivering a diverse group of high-quality, motivated students, resulting in over 22,000 hires. Over 16,500 of these hires have been women and minority - African-American, Hispanic, Asian-American and Native American - students.

Even in today's climate, competition for the best graduating students is fierce. Successful, innovative college recruiters know that they cannot hire the best possible candidates by only interviewing on-campus at a few targeted schools, but must use a variety of proactive, cost-effective recruiting strategies.

Careers 2004 Conferences are exactly that - focused, cost-effective events where we do the student recruiting and qualification screening, and you do the interviewing and hiring. We believe hiring the best students for your positions is a matter of having the largest and best choice of potential candidates.

This tradition of college diversity recruiting excellence continues with Careers 2004. And we guarantee each Careers 2004 Conference because we're confident you will find them to be a valuable addition to your college recruiting program.

PROVEN RESULTS

Whether you plan to make 1 hire, 100 hires or more - Careers 2004 will make a difference!

Hiring the best requires having the best choice. Careers 2004 makes it possible to cost-effectively recruit from a large number of schools and insures you'll meet, interview and hire high-quality seniors, juniors, sophomores.

Careers 2004 brings seniors (and selected sophomores and juniors for internship) recruited from 44 states and over 1,500 colleges & universities to you. Students who have been recruited, selected and personally invited to attend based on a record of academic achievement, related work experience and leadership. High-quality students. We work year round to develop and maintain relationships with placement directors, faculty, department heads, student leaders, interns, local, regional and national honor societies and academic associations. Members of over 1,200 student organizations attended our 2003 Conferences.

Quite simply, Careers 2004 gives you a bigger and better choice of high-quality, diverse candidates for every opening you have. And that results in better hiring decisions.

The Forum is organized in a career fair environment, providing you with an 8' x 10' pipe and drape booth, chairs, and sign.
