Mr. Berry was contacted to answer questions regarding the range cattle he raises on property he leases from Wallach Concrete, Inc. and WCS. Mr. Berry stated that he has approximately 40 head of cattle on Wallach Concrete property (which covers about a 1 mile radius around the proposed NEF site) and another 100 head on WCS property. He does not know their vegetation/water consumption rates. He stated that it takes about 65 acres to raise one cow in that part of the country.

He said that if it is a problem, he can stop raising the cattle on these properties if it means the NEF cannot be sited there. He stated he supports the location of the NEF there.
