On the security blackout story along ... So far, we've written letters to the editor at four papers: Petoskey (Mich) News something or other; Lorain (Ohio) Morning Journal; San Luis Obispo (Calif.) Tribune; and the Wilmington (N.C.) Star News. And we forced the AP not only to correct its story the night of the event but also to run a correction the following day for the misleading headline and offending safety/security second paragraph.

Last week I chewed out the editor of the North Adams (Mass.) Transcript about not calling the NRC on a spent fuel storage pond story generated by the New England Coalition.

Earlier this week we shot holes in the Paul Gunter press release on the rejection of some Vermont Yankee request.
