NRC INFORMATION NOTICE NO. 87-52: INSULATION BREAKDOWN OF SILICONE
RUBBER-INSULATED SINGLE CONDUCTOR
CABLES DURING HIGH POTENTIAL TESTING

Addressees:

All holders of operating licenses or construction permits for nuclear power reactors.

Purpose:

This information notice is being provided to alert addressees to potential problems resulting from insulation breakdown of various silicone rubber-insulated single conductor cables discovered during special high-potential tests. It is expected that recipients will review the information for applicability to their facilities and consider actions, as appropriate, to avoid similar problems. However, suggestions contained in this information notice do not constitute NRC requirements; therefore, no specific action or written response is required.

Description of Circumstances:

On September 4, 1987, the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) notified the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC), pursuant to the requirements of 10 CFR Part 21, of several failures of silicone rubber-insulated cables during high potential testing. The insulation failures occurred on three different silicone rubber-insulated single conductor No. 14 cables manufactured by the American Insulated Wire (AIW) Corporation and installed at TVA's Sequoyah Nuclear Plant. Subsequent testing by TVA found three additional insulation failures in silicone rubber-insulated cables manufactured by AIW and three failures in cables manufactured by the Rockbestos Company. To date, the licensee has found a total of 9 failures out of 91 tested conductors; however, the licensee has not determined the cause of these failures. TVA has concluded that the performance of the silicone rubber-insulated cables is significantly different from other cables at TVA facilities, where 923 tests were recently completed with no failures.

Discussion:

Additional laboratory testing of the silicone rubber-insulated cables, authorized by TVA, indicated that significant decreases in insulation wall thickness could result from lower-than-expected impact forces. The licensee speculates that such impact forces, which could affect the dielectric withstand characteristics of the cable, may occur during (1) handling by the manufacturer, (2) shipping, (3) receipt and storage by TVA, or (4) the installation process.

8710140124

871016
PDR I&E Notice 87-052

A failure of the cable at voltages below those accepted by the industry to demonstrate insulation integrity during equipment qualification testing may indicate the inability of the cable to perform its intended function under design basis accident conditions. For this reason, the licensee and the NRC are continuing to evaluate the silicone rubber-insulated cable failures. TVA is planning to perform additional high-voltage withstand tests on an expanded sample of the installed cables to provide a level of confidence in the integrity of the cable commensurate with that provided during the equipment qualification testing previously performed.

The results of the additional testing planned by TVA, as well as the results of those tests previously performed on installed cables, will be analyzed by TVA and the NRC to determine the extent of the problem.

The NRC will take appropriate regulatory action, such as issue a bulletin, if it is determined that the inability of these cables to perform as designed could create a substantial safety hazard.

No specific action or written response is required by this information notice. If you have any questions about this matter, please contact the technical contact listed below or the Regional Administrator of the appropriate regional office.
