NPPD.com: your destination for updated flood info

A flood information center is now a part of NPPD.com. This new site contains information about NPPD's preparations for flooding at facilities, including CNS and statewide Transmission and Distribution areas. It also provides electrical safety tips and precautions for NPPD customers to consider in the event flooding rivers or rising groundwater impact their homes.

As conditions change, information will be added and updated on this site, so be sure to check it out.
