Dear Christine Pineda,

Nuclear energy as demonstrated every few years is so deadly, toxic and onerous we as civilized human beings living on a tiny film of life on Planet Earth must abandon this technology forever. Three Mile Island, Chernobyl, and now Fukushima are proof that it is not possible to handle this process or radioactive materials with any amount of safety. When released the results persist and grow for centuries and I do not want to be responsible for a cumulative effect present in 100 or 200 years of spills, explosions and uncontained disaster.

The truth is we do not need nuclear energy. It is 5x as expensive as other technologies. Residential and Business Rooftop Solar could replace all power plants and supply clean, free energy forever. Alternative renewable energy sources of all kinds would provide good jobs and clean energy forever as well. We don't need oil, coal or nukes. The corporations and the 1% are too cheap and greedy to get off their deadbeat butts and retool our civilization to a sustainable future.

The above is the problem and solution in a nutshell that is easy to achieve if we do the right thing. Why won't you do your part in this regard?
