Re: General license distribution, LPA-1 XRF analyzer, SSD# MA-0573-D-103-B,
Dear customer:

Please note that the above serial number LPA-1 XRF analyzer is being transferred to you under General License provisions in your State. Your State regulatory agency has been notified of this transfer.

All labels including the General License label affixed to your LPA-1 XRF analyzer must be kept and maintained in a good condition at all times.

Even though you are receiving a device under General License provision, you are still obligated to follow all the applicable rules and regulations concerning the possession, use, and transfer of a device containing a radioactive source. You must maintain and follow a radiation safety program that is recommended by the State's regulatory agency. You should read the provided documents and also obtain a copy of the State's rules and regulations pertaining to this type of equipment. Your Instruction manual contains the telephone number of the regulatory agency in your State or you may contact us for further information.

Furthermore, you should be aware that the use of this device under General License provisions is limited to your State, where the device is transferred, and you may not transfer this device to any other State without prior authorization and adhering to all the applicable reciprocity requirements.

Please contact RMD Instruments for any question regarding this transfer at 671-668-6901 or email us at lpa@rmdinc.com.

Sincerely,
RMD Instruments
