National hello!

Please Bear with me...

Perhaps nuclear power plants should be taken elsewhere away from our U.S. National Parks. An idea for relocation is Antarctica or the Arctic Circle. Nuclear power is something very powerful that we as fellow equal human beings are still developing and still learning about. We know better than to use nuclear weapons against one another as United Nations. I believe there is a responsible and sensible use for nuclear technology. Maybe nuclear development will come in handy one day when the people of Earth are ready to explore deep into outer space. Nuclear expansion can and should be viewed positively as something we can harness for the good of humankind. Nonetheless anything nuclear must be kept far away from National Parks of The United States of America. Thanks for Bearing with me!
