I am writing to voice my concerns and opposition to the proposal from FPL to build 2 more nuclear reactors in south FL (reference Docket ID: NRC-2009-0337).

There are many reasons why Turkey Point is a terrible location. There are sensitive national parks (Everglades and Biscayne), a wildlife refuge and sensitive wetland habitats very close to the site. The site is also vulnerable to the impacts of rising seas. Logically, it does not add up.

Aside from the possible impact to sensitive parks and refuges, I don't think more nuclear reactors is the right solution. To make matters worse, FPL has not even committed to actually completing the project if approved! Why should Floridians support such a project? Florida should be investing in more renewable forms of energy that don't have such negative impacts on the environment. I just returned from Hawaii where solar installations are increasing for home and business use. Florida is sadly lagging behind.

I support the "No Action" alternative given the project's potentially widespread negative environmental and public health and safety impacts.

Sincerely,

Shannon Rapuano
