As a result of the above, the following is suggested as a possible explanation for the observed differences in the effects of the two types of treatment on the two types of patients. The patients with the more severe form of the disease may have been more susceptible to the effects of the treatment, and the patients with the less severe form may have been less susceptible. The patients with the more severe form of the disease may have been more susceptible to the effects of the treatment, and the patients with the less severe form may have been less susceptible.
