1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud.

2. The second part of the document outlines the specific requirements for record-keeping. It states that all transactions must be recorded in a timely and accurate manner, and that the records must be maintained for a minimum of five years.

3. The third part of the document discusses the role of the auditor in verifying the accuracy of the records. It states that the auditor must perform a thorough review of the records to ensure that they are complete and accurate, and that any discrepancies must be identified and resolved.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the consequences of failing to maintain accurate records. It states that failure to comply with the requirements may result in the imposition of penalties, including fines and imprisonment.

5. The fifth part of the document discusses the importance of training and education for personnel involved in record-keeping. It states that personnel must be properly trained and educated to ensure that they are able to perform their duties accurately and efficiently.

6. The sixth part of the document discusses the importance of internal controls in preventing fraud. It states that internal controls must be designed and implemented to ensure that all transactions are properly authorized and recorded, and that any potential fraud is detected and prevented.

7. The seventh part of the document discusses the importance of regular audits. It states that regular audits are necessary to ensure that the records are accurate and that the system is operating effectively.

8. The eighth part of the document discusses the importance of transparency and accountability. It states that all transactions must be transparent and that the results of the audits must be made available to the public.

9. The ninth part of the document discusses the importance of ongoing monitoring and evaluation. It states that the system must be regularly monitored and evaluated to ensure that it remains effective and that any necessary changes are made.

10. The tenth part of the document discusses the importance of cooperation and collaboration. It states that all parties involved in the financial system must work together to ensure that the system is operating effectively and that the requirements are being met.

Dear Mr. Knighton:

Attached is a copy of the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station (PVNGS) Offsite Dose Calculation Manual (ODCM). The subject document is being submitted in accordance with and to support the PVNGS Technical Specifications.

The attached ODCM is intended to be used for all three PVNGS Units. For PVNGS Unit 1, the changes to the currently approved ODCM will be submitted in our semiannual Radioactive Effluent Release and Waste Disposal Report in accordance with Technical Specification 6.9.1.8. We are submitting the attached ODCM at this time for Units 2 and 3.

If you have any questions concerning the ODCM, please contact Mr. W. F. Quinn of my staff.

Very truly yours,

E. E. Van Brunt, Jr.
