Figure 1 consists of nine panels arranged in a 3x3 grid, each representing a different geographical region. The regions are: North America (top-left), Europe (top-middle), Asia (top-right), Africa (middle-left), Oceania (middle-middle), and others (middle-right, bottom-left, bottom-middle, bottom-right). Each panel shows the spatial distribution of the 1998-1999 influenza season, with the epidemic wave moving from North America towards the rest of the world. The panels are labeled with the year '1998-1999' and the region name. The spatial distribution is characterized by a wave-like pattern moving from North America towards the rest of the world.
