Subject: [External_Sender] High Level Nuclear Waste Storage

As a former Particle Physicist, I appreciate the problem - and the need for waste facilities.

I appreciate also, as I trust we all do, that Nuclear Waste is not some sort of inert poisonous left overs.

It is HIGHLY ACTIVE and extremely dangerous. It reacts with its containment. It gets back into surface water sometime very much before anything like its half-life. And a very little of it gives you the sort of cancers you just don't want to think about.

Do a quick fix.....and your children's children will - no, not curse you - simply be sad that 21 century engineers could be so callous.

Guys, it's time to think. Please.

Edmund ssf.
