Subject: [External_Sender] Your December 20, 2018 Article on Santee Cooper

Good morning Avery,

I liked the article.

I think it is time to start asking why we have no V.C. Summer investigation results yet. It is (past) time for investigators to start drawing conclusions from their findings. In other words, when are people going to start going to jail? It can't be legal in South Carolina for principals to lie and waste billions of dollars, can it?

Also, given the documented refusal to provide information, could you find out when, (a specific date), the Santee Cooper, (and SCANA) board of directors has taken the initiative to actually direct ALL company employees to be honest and complete in their communications? I don't think that has happened.

Also, let me tell you that I am well acquainted with the "performance" of the owner of the San Onofre nuclear plant related to their replacement steam generator failure. One particularly insightful related comment that I saw pointed out that "the company" did not make those various decisions/mistakes, actual individuals did. The request made was that each problem cause would to identified with specifically named individuals, (although that did not happen).

Thank you,

Tom Gurdziel
