Gentlemen:

Please be advised that I am an attorney practicing at the above address which is approximately three miles from the site of the Limerick Nuclear Power Station, which is scheduled to open sometime in 1984. Pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, I would like to request the following information for the conduct of my business:

1. documents related to the projected opening date of the Limerick Power Station, including the date when the reactor is scheduled to go "critical";
2. please inform me of all of the "due" or "anticipated risks" including the statistical risk parameters which the general public within a ten mile radius of said power station will be expected to bear in the normal course of the plant life of said power station. These risks should include enhanced radiation above normal background radiation, the statistical risks of the various types of nuclear emergencies and a statement of the radiation to be emitted by each emergency and the chances of escape of radiation from stored nuclear materials in the plant into ground water and other environmental avenues; and
3. a statement from you of "undue" risks which the public should not be expected to bear from the presence of a nuclear power station in the ten mile zone, but which may occur anyway as a result of gross neglect of your regulations, such as apparently occurred at Three Mile Island.

I would request the above information within ten days, however, I would readily accept any reasonable extensions provided you ask for them within the ten day period.

Very truly yours,
