General Comment

Now that the federal government is officially in the hands of criminals and morons, it is to be expected that every rule proposed would be beneficial to a few rich contributors and disastrous for most humans, all animals and the planet. This is the case with the proposed changes under review here. I oppose these changes, and so would any rational person who is not on the take from the criminal cabal calling itself the Republican Party. It is my hope that some human with a shred of decency left will read this and do all in her or his power to thwart the crooks who are stealing as much and as fast as they can before they are run out of town and, with any justice, put in prison.
