

DOCKET NUMBER 50-289
PROD. & UTIL. REG. COMMISSION

Jan 28 1981

James F. Kearney
Chairman
U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission
Washington, D.C.
Dear Mr. Kearney,

The time is long past due for the re-starting of TMI-1 which has undergone discriminatory treatment by the U.S. government as well as the news media and political groups.

Why is there such an acrimine lack of understanding as to what this continued harassment of this company is doing to the consuming public, the electric power industry and stockholders in the industry?

How many years of red tape and waste of taxpayer money does it take to make a decision on TMI-1?

We need all the energy for electricity that nuclear power offers now.

Let's hope that the new administration in Washington will get things off dead center so that we can at least keep up with the more progressive countries of the world.

Please, Mr. Kearney, we think it's time for TMI-1 to re-start.

Sincerely,

Carl Malinowski
