Dear Mr. Comey:

In accordance with Item 2010(b) of the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board's (ASLB) Partial Initial Decision on TMI-1, FEMA's Office of Public Affairs has reviewed the changes made in the five risk county brochures and the PEMA pamphlet on emergency preparedness.

The staff found these publications to be quite adequate for the intended purpose of public information and education for permanent residents and transient population within the emergency planning zone.

In a phone conversation with a member of my staff, several suggestions were made for further refinements. These suggestions were largely editorial in nature, however, a request was made to simplify the evacuation maps on each of the five county risk brochures. We were assured, at that time, that this had already been addressed and several of the extraneous lines had been removed making the maps much clearer. Another suggestion was that portions of the brochures (the "Where to Go" section) be made available in magnified form for the visually impaired and senior citizens.

I am making a copy of this letter available to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for inclusion in the record of actions taken in response to the ASLB's instructions in its Partial Initial Decision on TMI-1.

Sincerely,

Signed: Lee M. Thomas
