General Comment

Consideration to the Chernobyl dome and its upkeep or the Japanese allowing the dumping of radioactive water from their wrecked power plant, the Indian point reactors were always dangerously close to urban NYC and the Lower Hudson estuary and with decommissioning why should the Energy Dept. allow for dangerous and perhaps cataclysmic mishandling of untold historic dangerous loose ends too close to millions of people and their future....the worst possible outcome could even supply circumstance for acts of terrorism and should be handled with the strongest possible respect for the people of New York , not a shell for profit like a old tin can waiting to be kicked, whether the noise disturbs the neighborhood ,or even ends up in the neighbors yard.....
