Power), U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555. Written appearances may be mailed to the same address or submitted at the Limited Appearance session. Limited Appearances will be listened to or read carefully but they are not part of the decisional record and may not, therefore, form a basis for the opinion of the Board. Each appearance will be limited to from five to ten minutes, depending on the number of speakers; the time limit will be announced at the beginning of the session.

The prehearing conference will be held to hear oral argument concerning the admission of parties and contentions. The order of oral argument will be: petitioner, applicant for the amendment, Staff of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Parties may have up to one half hour — including interruptions for Board questions — and may reserve up to ten (10) minutes for rebuttal. At the conclusion of oral argument, parties may be given up to five minutes each for arguments concerning scheduling. All written exhibits and graphics to be used at the conference should be received by the Board and parties by January 7, 1992.
