Dear U. S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission:

I, James Smallwood, do accept the responsibility of Radiation Protection Officer for Foseco, Inc. and am fully aware of the commitment and duties associated with this position. I have made myself familiar with Parts 19, 20, and 30 of Title 10, Chapter I of the Code of Federal Regulations, as well as the draft document "A Guide for Preparation of Applications for Licenses to Use Sealed Sources Containing Byproduct Material in Nonportable Gauging Devices".

On February 23, 1984, I was duly trained by an authorized representative of the manufacturer of our density meter in the proper use, lock-out procedures, and maintenance of the gauge. I will be responsible for an inventory of the source every six months and will order radiation leak tests every three years.

Sincerely,

James Smallwood

I, Paul F. Duvall, being an officer of Foseco, Inc., do hereby certify that James Smallwood is qualified to act in the capacity of Radiation Protection Officer; further, I reaffirm that Foseco, Inc. continues to meet all of the requirements of the NRC with regard to low level radiation sources.

*The Nuclear Regulatory Commission regulations require that supervisory responsibility for any nuclear device be formally assigned in a letter to the NRC. Your recent instruction in the use and precautions pertaining to the K-Ray Density meter, in conjunction with your supervisory responsibility for the area, dictate that you be identified in our letter to the NRC.
