COMMENTS

The mission of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is to ensure adequate protection of the public health and safety, the common defense and security, and the environment in the use of nuclear materials in the United States. The NRC's scope of responsibility includes regulation of commercial nuclear power reactors; nonpower research, test, and training reactors; fuel cycle facilities; medical, academic, and industrial uses of nuclear materials; and the transport, storage, and disposal of nuclear materials and waste.

However, a search of the NRC's Freedom Of Information, and Public Document Room databases was made. The search indicated that this agency has no records related to your request. You may be able to obtain documentation pertaining to your request by contacting the following:
