MATERIALS LICENSING SECTION

RE: LICENSE #12-24554-01

Dear Ms. McDonald:

We recently received our license number and noted several things therein, the first being that the Amersham Model IMC.2 iodine 125 seal source had not been approved for use with our bone densitometer. I recently spoke with Terry Magasi from Nuclear Data, who stated that their application for approval of this is currently under consideration. This would significantly facilitate the use of our new bone densitometer, since this source is readily available in this country and would not require cross-country and customs problems, as has been evident in the past with the AECL sources.

As a result of our current application and license being only allowed to use the AECL, we would like to amend our current source maximal amount to 250 millicuries as noted in Section 8 of the license to facilitate ease in obtaining these sources from Canada.

Secondly, we would like to amend the location of our bone densitometer within our office. The address would be the same; however, the room and the location of this within the suite would be different. Enclosed is a new drawing of where this would be located. As can be noted, there are no outside windows in this room for increased security; similarly, there is a locked door with access only by people in our office and Housekeeping.

Enclosed is a check for $120.00 as required for amended license applications; however, prior to approval of this amendment, we will continue to use our Nuclear Data Model ND1100 bone density scanner in the previously applied for and approved location.

Sincerely,
